Christmas has come and gone withou any accidents in this section, except several marriages, which I suppose were not accidents. During the hollidays there were five marriages in this immediate vicinity.

The school house at this place is undergoing a very much needed improvement. It is being ceiled and made comfortable, and new patent desks have been ordered for it. When they arrive and are put in this place will have a school house than which no community has a better. More than forty pupils have been enrolled. But owing to the expenditure of the public funds for improvements, the attendance will not continue large. How-ever, this is just what has been needed, and now that it is being done, all will be well in the future. I believe it is the best use that could be made of the pub lic funds. The people are beginning to wake up to the importance of education. The time is fast coming when the people

MR. EDITOR: The St. Regis tribe of Indians are located on a Reservation of 14,000 acres in Western Kansas. The tribe numbers 2,100 souls, including bucks, squaws and papoose. They still adhere to their own language, few of them being able to speak English. They, like the red men in general, never want to be civilized enough to do much hard work. That is one of the accomplishments of the pale-face that they regard as unfit for warriors. and should only be tolerated when performed by squaws. During the hunting and fishing season the bucks are seldom found at home, as they had rather hunt a deer ten hours a day for a week than boe a half acre of corn. This rambling life, spent on rippling streams, mirror lakes and virgin forests, studying the beautiful foliage, the exquisite colorings of the forest leaves, the lovely hues of the prairie flowers, and their natural blending and shading to produce brilliant and showy effects. These dreamy hours, spent in studying nature, has developed a very keen conception of the artistic blending of colors, so as to produce most gorgeous results. For centuries past liant and delicate colored dyes, until at last they have acquired such skill that they can dye strips of wood that cannot be distinguished from the finest
